This communication contains “forward-looking statements” within the meaning of the safe harbor provisions of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 that are not limited to historical facts, but reflect Continental’s and UAL’s current beliefs, expectations or intentions regarding future events. Words such as “may,” “will,” “could,” “should,” “expect,” “plan,” “project,” “intend,” “anticipate,” “believe,” “estimate,” “predict,” “potential,” “pursue,” “target,” “continue,” and similar expressions are intended to identify such forward-looking statements. These forward-looking statements include, without limitation, Continental’s and UAL’s expectations with respect to the synergies, costs and other anticipated financial impacts of the proposed transaction; future financial and operating results of the combined company; the combined company’s plans, objectives, expectations and intentions with respect to future operations and services; approval of the proposed transaction by stockholders and by governmental regulatory authorities; the satisfaction of the closing conditions to the proposed transaction; the timing of the completion of the proposed transaction; and other factors that are set forth in the “Risk Factors” section, the “Legal Proceedings” section, the “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations” section and other sections of UAL’s and Continental’s Annual Reports on Form 10-K, subsequent Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q, recent Current Reports on Form 8-K, and other SEC filings. Examples of such risks and uncertainties include, but are not limited to, (1) the possibility that the proposed transaction is delayed or does not close, including due to the failure to receive required stockholder or regulatory approvals, the taking of governmental action (including the passage of legislation) to block the transaction, or the failure of other closing conditions, and (2) the possibility that the expected synergies will not be realized, or will not be realized within the expected time period, because of, among other things, significant volatility in the cost of aircraft fuel, the high leverage and other significant capital commitments of Continental and UAL, the ability to obtain financing and to refinance the combined company’s debt, the ability of Continental and UAL to maintain and utilize their respective net operating losses, the impact of labor relations, global economic conditions, fluctuations in exchange rates, competitive actions taken by other airlines, terrorist attacks, natural disasters, difficulties in integrating the two airlines, the willingness of customers to travel by air, actions taken or conditions imposed by the U.S. and foreign governments or other regulatory matters, excessive taxation, further industry consolidation and changes in airlines alliances, the availability and cost of insurance and public health threats.

UAL and Continental caution that the foregoing list of factors is not exclusive. Additional information concerning these and other risk factors is contained in Continental’s and UAL’s most recently filed Annual Reports on Form 10-K, subsequent Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q, recent Current Reports on Form 8-K, and other SEC filings. United, Continental Appear Before Senate Judiciary Committee on Merger

United CEO Glenn Tilton and Continental CEO Jeff Smisek appeared Thursday before a U.S. Senate panel with oversight of antitrust matters to discuss our proposed merger and answer questions from senators.

Glenn and Jeff submitted joint testimony and also delivered opening remarks about the benefits the merger delivers for shareholders, employees, customers and communities, and discussed the need for the industry to return to profitability.

“Our merger creates a more viable and sustainable enterprise at a time when the status quo for our industry is clearly unacceptable,” Glenn said. “Strong U.S. commercial aviation will be a key enabler of our nation’s economy.”

Judiciary Committee Chairman Sen. Herb Kohl said, having spent a career in business that he understood the need for profitability and the financial struggles of the industry, and that the committee would review the proposed merger to ensure that customers and competition are protected.

“I should stress that we consider this merger with an open mind, and do not reflexively oppose or support the merger,” Kohl said.

Kohl asked whether the industry would be better served with re-regulation, similar to utilities, where competition is limited and companies providing service are permitted a fair profit.

Glenn said consumers have benefited from de-regulation with airfares that are 30 percent lower, adjusted for inflation, than they were when the industry was more heavily regulated.

Others testifying included a professor of economics and an analyst representing a consumer group who suggested that the merger would reduce competition and drive fares higher.

Glenn said we face low cost carriers in 85 percent of our network, ensuring that customers have choice and competitive fares, and said the industry required change.

“Serial bankruptcy is not a strategy for an industry that is going to benefit any constituent -- not a single one,” Glenn said.

Glenn and Jeff will testify before the U.S. House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee and House Judiciary Committee on June 16 in Washington, D.C.
