

Subject Company: Continental Airlines, Inc.
Commission File No.: 1-10323

Dear [NAME]

As a valued customer, we wanted to provide you with information about the United Airlines and Continental Airlines merger agreement announced this morning. This merger of equals will create the world's leading airline that is well-positioned to succeed in an increasingly competitive global and domestic aviation environment and brings significant benefits to our partners, as well as employees, customers, shareholders and communities.

Although announced today, the merger is expected to close in the fourth quarter of 2010, only after it is approved by shareholders of both companies, receives regulatory clearance and customary closing conditions are satisfied. Accordingly, pursuant to law, United and Continental will operate independently until then and continue to drive improvements in our respective businesses.

We will continue to provide services to our valued customers at the same high level of quality you have come to expect.

The new airline will be called United Airlines and the company will have the financial strength to invest in globally competitive products, upgrade technology and implement the best-in-class practices of both airlines. It will have its corporate and operational headquarters in Chicago and maintain a significant presence in Houston, which will be the combined airline's largest hub.

By way of background, the merger will create the world's most comprehensive route network, offering exceptional international gateways to Asia, Europe, Latin America and the Middle East from anywhere in the United States. The new airline is expected to serve more than 144 million passengers per year and fly to 370 destinations in 59 countries. The combined company will have ten hubs, including hubs in the four largest cities in the United States, and will continue to provide service to all U.S. cities currently served by either airline, including service to over 140 small metropolitan areas and communities.

Today is just the first step in the merger process and we are committed to obtaining the necessary approvals and clearance in a timely matter, as well as making a smooth transition to the new airline. Based on our ongoing codeshare and joint venture partnerships and collaboration in Star Alliance, we are confident that we can successfully and seamlessly integrate our companies.

As noted, until that time, United and Continental will be operating independently as competitors. Our contracts with you remain in force as written, and you should continue to work with your regular contacts at United. To continue our strong relationship, in the coming weeks and months your local sales teams and global strategic partner managers will keep you updated on progress and upcoming changes in a timely way. We look forward to continuing to work together.

You can read the press release and other general information on the merger at www.UnitedContinentalmerger.com. Regular updates will also be posted on that site.

Sincerely,
